Reference Letter

To Whom It May Concern:

Reference Data Management takes important part of any Data Warehouse and Business Intelligence solution. We started RDM Project in order to establish consistent definition, store and management of reference data sets and data types through development of a specialized Web-based application. The project developed to integrated BI Portal, including also Business Dictionary (which conforms terms, business indicators and dimensions across the whole organization) and BI Need Catalog (which collects and organizes all reporting business requirements), with objectives for optimization of business information processes and implementation of single entry point for all business information needs.

BI Partner helped us with the solution architecture, back-end components and processes as well as solution data modeling. Additionally BI Partner supported us in solution front-end development.

BI Partner has significantly contributed to the successful development and delivery of the solution. We do confirm continuing our successful cooperation with them.

Sincerely,

Zhivko Angelov,
